PRESS RELEASE

International Museum Day – 18 May 2011 Museum and Memory: Objects Tell Your Story

On and around 18 May next, museums worldwide will celebrate International Museum Day. Established in 1977 by the International Council of Museums, more than 30,000 museums in around 100 countries will hold special activities on this occasion.

Museum and Memory: Objects Tell Your Story

In 2011, the theme of International Museum Day is Museum and Memory. Through the objects they store, museums collect stories and convey the memory of our communities. These objects are the expressions of our natural and cultural heritage. Many of them are fragile, some endangered and they need special care and conservation. International Museum Day 2011 will be an occasion for visitors to discover and rediscover individual and collective memory.

Activities on the Museum and Memory theme...

In Australia, the National Sports Museum in Melbourne is organising a programme called Remembering the Moments that Made Us where visitors of the museum will have the opportunity to meet and talk with sporting legends ("Memory Makers") who contributed to great sporting moments and memories. In Sudan, the Natural History Museum in Khartoum has created an educational programme for families and school children who will be able to participate in a photography competition on the theme Documenting Our Natural History. In Argentina, the Museo Argentino de Ciencias Naturales "Bernardino Rivadavia" in Caba, will offer a programme entitled Musecuentos specially established for this occasion. Storytellers will share stories that will be highlighted by the museum's objects. In Belgium, the Musée royal de Mariemont will offer guided tours on the theme "Objects' CV".

International and Institutional Partnerships

The conservation and transmission of collective memory is a preoccupation for other heritage players, beyond the museum community. For this reason, for the first time ever, the International Council of Museums has initiated close institutional partnerships with other organisations that feel concerned by these questions and share ICOM's preoccupation for the preservation of memory: the UNESCO "Memory of the World" programme, the Co-ordinating council of Audiovisual Archives Associations (CCAAA), the International Council on Archives (ICA), the International Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS) and the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA).

In addition, ICOM will be a patron of the European Night of Museums on 14 May, 2011 for the first time since the event was launched in 2005. At the launch of the European Night of Museums, International Museum Day is announced.

We wish you an excellent International Museum Day and an enjoyable European Night of Museums!

Press conference / Free admission to the permanent exhibition for the first 100 new arrivals at the conference debates On the occasion of IMD 2011 and to mark the golden jubilee celebrations of African independence, the Museum of Civilization / Program Route des Chefferies (MDC / PRDC) would like to share with its audience the relevance of the generic theme Museum and Memory through the vision people have of the remains of the pre-independence period to the present day Cameroon. It is also an opportunity for the MDC / PRDC to communicate its approach in the fight against illicit traffic in cultural heritage. Part of the entertainment programme for IMD 2011 at the MDC / PRDC aims to educate its audiences, particularly young people, on the preservation of intangible heritage by providing two artists performing two musical genres (folk and urban). The one-week celebration (16-21 May) will be launched by a press conference in the multipurpose room of the MDC on 13 May.

ICOM Senegal

Cultural and scientific days (9am – 1pm, 3pm – 6pm and 9pm – 12am)

Visit, performance, educational programme.

ICOM Senegal organises each year on IMD scientific days that follow an essay competition for lower-sixth- and upper-sixth form students. Fifth-form students have been targeted for this year's theme. A month before the days that will take place after the one organised by each museum, one museum receives all the museum professionals of Senegal and assimilated institutions and the 10 or 15 primed students during a weekend for discussions with a dinner debate, visits of sites and also a cultural evening. Moreover, authorities will be invited to share these moments and to enhance the prize-giving ceremony with their presence. The prizes are generally offered by partners in each town that contains a museum. This year, since the armed forces museum has a bus museum which relates the history of servicemen, the bus museum will move to the host town so as to enable students and other visitors to visit the Senegalese and African military history.

Sergey Merkourov was born on 7th November 1881 in Alexandrapole (currently Gumri). In 1902 he began a student of the University of Zurich, in philosophy department. 1902 is a turning point regarding his professional career. He was trained by the sculptor Adolf Mayer. Through the sculptor advices, he decided to essentially devote himself to art. In 1903, he attends the Art Academy of Munich. His journeys in Italy contributed to his personal fulfillment. From 1905 to 1907 Merkourov lived and worked in Paris. At the same time, he admired the art and the ideas of the sculptor Auguste Rodin, whose we can note he got influenced on his proper works.

Beyond the monumental works, he realized funeral masks of more than 300 influential men. His first work in this field was for the funeral mask of Khrimyan Hairik, in 1907 (Catholic Armenian). Merkourov died on in 1952. Each year we take part in the International Museums Day and every time with different ideas. This year, on the 14th of May, we will present to the visitors all the funeral masks that we have from the Greco-armenian sculptor Sergey Mekourov. We will also have a show performed by disabled people.

The Museum of Monarchy and the Tower of Trongsa

International Museum Day (18 May, 2011)

Conference, educational programme, participation in the event

The Museum of Monarchy is a young institution established in the year 2008 and consisting of 14 staff and 11 galleries. Attending the International Museum Day conference would enhance the knowledge of the staff and museum functioning. Such international activity will be very useful for a small art museum in a less developed country such as Bhutan. The museum staff has never participated to such an event and it would be quite interesting and knowledge-focused to attend it.

Museum Geologi

Olympics for Earth Sciences and Geography (around 18 May, 2011)

Educational programme.

This programme is a kind of competition on earth sciences and geography involving high-school students. As a geology museum, we want to increase students' knowledge of earth sciences and geography, and help them gain a broader understanding of museums. Olympics for Earth Sciences and Geography are a national competition in Indonesia, and this year is the second time it will be held. May is also our museum's anniversary. On 16 May, 2011, Museum Geologi will celebrate its 82nd anniversary.

Body Gestures and campo 82133 N - Shay Frisch Peri (10:00-14:00)

Free-entry.

Body gestures constitute a highly expressive means of communication, which includes a wide range of both conspicuous and inconspicuous movements. This language functions as a parallel or alternative to the use of words; at times it completes and underscores a verbal message, while in other instances it endows it with a different, contradictory, or surprising meaning, or replaces words altogether. The works featured in the exhibition Body Gestures examine the logic, meaning, and impact of this body language in a range of different ways.

Participating artists: William Cobbing, Pierre Coulibeuf, Thomas Hirschhorn, Lea Golda Holterman, Nadav Kander, Tali Keren, Galia Uri, Araya Rasdjarmrearnsook, Hadas Reshef, Shachaf Yaron.

The Museum's main gallery features Shay Frisch Peri's installation Campo 82133 N, which includes two wall works and a floor work. These works are composed of 82,133 black electric adaptors, which are plaited together into basic geometric shapes - a rectangle, square and circle. These three electric circuits emit a pale light, and their embroidered surfaces have an austere and meticulous quality.

Clore Garden of Science

Free visit to the Clore Garden of Science (throughout May 18)

Free-entry, guided tour.

During the International Museum Day, the garden is open to visitors, free of charge.

The Clore Garden of Science is an entirely outdoor science museum. It was designed to bring people of all ages closer to science in all its fascinating aspects. The Garden enables the visitor to experience science through interactive exhibits that demonstrate the principles and natural phenomena that influence our life. The Clore Garden of Science spans 8000 square meters, all under the open sky. Natural elements such as sunlight, wind, and water play an important part in many of the Garden's hands-on displays. The designers of the Garden took advantage of the unique dimensions of the outdoor setting, and built exhibits as tall as 20 meters. Experimenting and activating the exhibits is one of the great pleasures awaiting visitors to the Clore Garden of Science.

Built in 1934 over a well, set in sand dunes, the Bauhaus styled building, served as secrete training base for "Haganah" members from Holon and area, prior to the establishment of the state of Israel. The "Haganah" was an underground organization in the 40's that fought against British mandate ruling of Palestine.

An interactive exhibition and tour allows visitors to experience the "Haganah" spirit, learn about the 'security road' and life in Holon before and during the war of independence. Visit includes entrance to the old Hosmasa well, and tour of Hosmasa garden and artifacts.

Extended tour may include visits to additional historic sites as the Pillbox, the "Security Road" and water tower as well as new sites and attractions in Holon.

We offer tour programs especially designed for school classes.

Remembrance (9:00-20:00)

Free-entry, educational programme, "Shoah"/Claude Lantzman - part one.

The Ghetto Fighters' House – Itzhak Katzenelson Holocaust and Jewish Resistance Heritage Museum– known as the "Home" – is not only the first Holocaust museum in the world but also the first of its kind to be founded by Holocaust survivors.

The Ghetto Fighters' House provides its visitors, both from Israel and abroad, a unique experience, going beyond the grief and horror in order to make evident Antek Zukerman's declaration in the first National Gathering for Holocaust and Heroism Remembrance Day that took place on the Ghetto Fighters' Kibbutz: "We came here to build homes filled with life."

Gurjevsk Museum

Museums' night (21.05/2011 18-00 - 02-00)

Free-entry, openings, performance, game, educational programme.

Museum Night is a traditional event in Gurevsk. It consists of several stages: visit of exhibitions, the drinking of grassy teas in fields from an ancient merchant samovar; multimedia visit (slideshow) of sights in our area "Streets of a city - memory of generations". With the help of magic ancient mirrors or by speaking to fortunetellers each visitor can discover his destiny and receive a magic amulet.

Museum Night is full of interesting surprises, such as special games for children including "I'm drawing the World", "Museum's treasures" and others.

The museum's creative specialists present the original competitions with the participation of family members. Each guest can take photos.

"Live Music at the Museum"

Cultural and Artistic Evening.

In partnership with the Samarkand State Museums and the City Department for Cultural Affairs, on 9th April we are planning to start a cycle of events to celebrate the International Museum Day 2011. During the "Live Music at the Museum" Cultural and Artistic Evening we'll introduce "Charming Hostess" band from the USA. Our American guests, composer and vocalist Jewlia Eisenberg and multi-wind instrumentalist Jason Ditzian will present their innovative historical-cultural and musical project - The Bowls Project - inspired by Babylonian amulets. "Charming Hostess" will be joined on stage by the Samarkand musicians playing Uzbek national instruments. The event will take place in the old and beautifully decorated reception hall of the Samarkand Museum for Regional Studies. The activists of Samarkand Peace Museum will give to all participants multicoloured paper cranes - an international symbol of peace, friendship and good will.

Montandenkmal Altböckstein

3200 years ago (May 15, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.)

Free-entry, visit, presentation of an archaeological trove.

The fragment of a bronze crested helmet, revealed during archaeological excavations in the valley nearby the museum, will be shown and introduced to the visitors. The helmet, dating back 3200 years, was meant for a votive offering. It is similar to the one discovered already in the 19th century in a neighbouring region. These findings are evidence of a prospering Bronze Age trade.

Museum of History with Art gallery

Our museum and its collections (18.05.2011, 11:00)

Opening exhibition.

"Our museum and its collections" is a photo exhibition. It presents the building of the museum, which is a cultural monument in late baroque style. It also presents the Ethnographic house of the museum. Emphasis is on some popular exponents. Among them is the Good Shepherd - a unique marble statue, dated from the 4th century. Unique is also the early Christian marble cross with relief decoration with oak twigs. Additional exponents are objects of the daily round, which tell the history of the Bulgarian people during different periods. Each object is present with a photo and a short annotation.

Visit of the museum's bookbinding workshop (14:30 - 17:30)
Visit.

On the occasion of International Museum Day 2011, the Jeanne d'Albret museum, history of Protestantism in the Bearn region, is opening up its bookbinding workshop, which is usually closed to the public. Situated at the heart of the museum's library, the workshop is managed and animated by the association's voluntary workers, who work to safeguard the many books that are part of the Jeanne d'Albret museum's collections. Come and discover the different stages of bookbinding: racking, backing, notching, etc. The voluntary workers will tell you all about the art of bookbinding and will be delighted to answer your questions.

National Museum of Montenegro

Revival of cultural and historical core of Cetinje (May 18th 8pm - 2am)

Free-entry, Openings, Visit, Educational programme

Cultural and historical core of Cetinje consists of several very important places - archeological localities and museums which can give encompassing insight into Montenegrin cultural heritage. Since they're all situated closely to each other, the idea of the National Museum of Montenegro activity programme for the International Museum Day is to give an image of the city as an cultural and artistic cradle of Montenegro through its cultural and historical development in chronological order. There will be a fictive path on which the audience will be guided to see the collection of all participating museums - from visiting archeological localities, i.e. architectural fragments from 15th century (First Balkan printing-house was situated on Cetinje, and church of Crnojevic dynasty dedicated to Virgin Mary), memorial museums such as Biljarda - Residence of bishop and ruler Petar II Petrovic Njegos and his successors, in which arms will be exhibited as the oldest exhibited collection in Cetinje and also collection which holds some of the most representative, authentic everyday things of Njegos' family; there is also king Nicola's palace and modern Institution such as Government house in which Art Gallery and History museum are situated. The museum items are different in their character: archaeological sources, written and printed documents, war relics (arms, flags, uniforms, coats-of arms), furniture, various types of ethnographic items covering the entire ethnographic subject matter of present-day Montenegro, art works (holy paintings - icons, paintings, sculptures, prints, drawings, installations) originating from the medieval period to late twentieth century. Therefore, visitors will be able to see and feel (through audio-visual projection) the very spirit of past times in Cetinje and to revive their own memories.

Free admission, games.

"The Memory Book"

The collection of testimonies of stories, memories or experiences of an industrial past environment, old crafts, old lifestyle and previous practices.

Objective:

- Revive the memory of previous lifestyles and personal experiences.
- Think through the emotion of how and how it has changed our reality.

Targets: The grandparents and their grandchildren, and visitors from different generations who come together at the museum.

Content: You are invited to visit their rooms, share experiences and leave a witness of some memory or experience of our industrial past environment, old jobs, old lifestyles and previous habits, etc.

This witness can be a little text, a picture or a photocopy of a photograph, a press clipping, or any element that helps to recover our memory, transmit to future generations and build together a memory book. The collection of such evidence may lead to an exhibition to be presented at the museum.

Free admission for the grandparents who come with their grandchildren and for visitors from different generations who come together to the museum.

Museum and Memory. Objects tell your story. (Morning and afternoon)

Visit, workshop, educational programme.

In May, the Casa de Colón is presenting a series of activities intended for groups of pupils from primary and secondary schools (Los objetos cuentan su historia), for undergraduate students (El papel de las fuentes históricas), senior citizens (Paramayo) and the general public (Micro relatos en Facebook).

Our goal is to actively bring the public closer to the many artefacts and documents that belong to the museum's collection, through the exploration of our galleries and the familiarisation with the Casa de Colón Library. We also invite people to write stories about an object, a creation proposal which allow us to share different points of view on the artefacts in the collection.

Museo - Refugio de la Guerra Civil

Erecciones Completas (10.30pm and 12am)

Performance.

The Shelters of Gisbert Street were built in 1937, during the Spanish Civil War. Excavated in the Conception Hill, they were the largest shelters in the city that could accommodate 5,500 people. From the beginning to the end of the war, Cartagena suffered repeated bombings by the German and Italian aviation. The reasons for these bombings were the fact that the harbour was the Republic's naval base, the place where support to the Republican arrived and it was the second center of war industry in the Republican zone. In 2006, Gisbert Street shelters opened to the public allowing people remember some episodes of our recent history.

OS REVERENDOS: Behind this Galician-Portuguese name, two performers poets hide. They are lovers of good texts, comedy and verbal sparrings. Os Reverendos intend to disseminate their message, open branches wherever they go and start a new religion.

Centro de Interpretación de la Muralla Púnica

David Ymbernón Poesía Visual Culinaria (10pm and 11.30pm)

Performance.

The interpretation centre - Centro de Interpretación de la Muralla Púnica (The Punic Wall Interpretation Centre) deals with safeguarding the remains of the ancient Carthaginian wall which encircled the city and are one of the rare remains of Punic archaeological sites in the Iberian Peninsula.

Near the wall, there is the crypt which is the only remains that are left from the chapel of San José, and dates from the 16th to the 19th century.

The excavations of these two archaeological sites took place in 1987 and their development in 2003. During the Museum Night, Ymbernón will tell how, as a child, he was intoxicated by drinking a potion he prepared carefully. It was a hint of what would happen years later with "Bona Cuina" (Premio Nacional de Acciones Artística 1999), later to be known as "Poesía Visual Culinaria": it consists of cooking a dish and from an egg, you get a salad, from a banana you get a sausage, etc.

Castillo de la Concepción

Música antigua. Música sefardí (Ancient Music, Sephardic Music) (10pm and 11.30pm)

Concert.

This castle was built in the thirteenth century at the request of King Alfonso X the Wise, because it is located in a place that was a strategic place in the city until the second half of the eighteenth century, when it was abandoned. In 2003, after suffering a series of transformations, the Torre del Homenaje was restored and rehabilitated by Cartagena Port of Cultures to host the Interpretation Centre of the History of Cartagena. In 2010, Cartagena, Cartagena Port of Cultures restored some parts of the castle. These parts are architectural extensions dating from the late seventeenth century and early eighteenth century. This space is used to explain the medieval city, and covers the period of the Muslim rule and the period of the Christian Reconquest (La reconquista) conducted by Prince Alfonso of Castile, who will be later on known as King Alfonso X the Wise.

Ana Alcaide will perform a concert based on the Sephardic tradition and world music. Ana Alcaide is a performer and composer specializing in traditional music, who conducts research around ancient traditions and cultures. Ana Alcaide: Nyckelharpa, Voice, Moraharpa. Rafa del Teso, Mandola, Guitar. William Cooley: Psalter, Oud, Percussions.

Fundación Pons

Crónicas del-Bosque, Sonómetro poético (Wednesday 18, May 7pm-10pm)

Inauguration.

The plot line is a traffic for the Federico García Lorca's Theatrical imaginary, it comes from a night landscape from the impossible language of the insects, (El maleficio de la Mariposa) painting and collage on table, paper and parchment as support, oil, Indian ink and silk, as main technique in the building.

There will be an installation in the lucernario.

For the exterior court the projection of images will be combined with a sculptural group of pieces of wood and glass surrounded with a Myriad of leaves spread on the floor and an installation in the railing surrounding the building. In the interior wall of the Glassy Forest, we will project the sequential image of the video "La Escondida". The aim is to remember the commitment of the plastic arts with the poetry treated in a handcrafted way, with the sight put in the nature as restorer of the ecosystem and its beneficial conviviality with the urban forests.

AMBA

¿Y tú qué recuerdo quieres contar? Memorias (11am - 2pm and 7pm - 9pm)

Free entry, Visit, Game.

Greetings from the AMBA (The friends' association of the Museo de BB.AA y Artium de Álava).

We would like to make you participate to our offer on International Museum Day. The most important day for the friends of Museums.

AMBA on this day it wants to remember the citizens. We want remember those who struggle for the need to create a space that make us real.

(to look / to know / to investigate / to guard / to spread / to think / criticize...) are the heritage of contemporary art that the Diputación Foral de Álava has been buying for the enjoyment and the pride of the whole society of Álava.

It has its own name: Centro Museo Vasco de Arte Contemporáneo Artium.

We will remember it.

We will invite the whole society to report and leave their memory in THE LIBRO DE LA MEMORIA.

We want to leave a blank sheet so that every citizen expresses his experiences in / for / from / about Museums. Suggestions, worries, needs, congratulations, objections, future...

The schedule will be open house (from 11am to 2pm and from 7pm to 9pm). During this time visitors will be told if they approach what is carried out by AMBA, while we have a coffee or beer... with some crisps etc.

150 museums take part in IMD

Visits.

150 Swiss museums participate in IMD.

The museums' mission to preserve memory constitutes the theme for IMD 2011: which objects and memories do museums collect and why these particular objects? How to preserve objects both for the present and the future? How do we explore the objects' history? And how to share these stories with the public?

Storytelling (2pm and 4pm)

Free admission, oral narrative.

"Museocuentos" (The objects tell my story)

Storytelling (Oral Narration) for children 6 to 12 years.

Two storytellers will share literary stories and to do that, in every story an object that lives in the museum will be highlighted.

This activity will serve as an illustration or a support to what is expressed primarily through the spoken word, gesture and body language. In some cases tell stories with objects will trigger the stories to be shared with the public.

Bearing in mind that when tales are primarily aimed at the younger ones, they usually are accompanied by adults, the opportunity will then become a space for everyone.

The activity will aim to raise awareness of the important role for museums in society, being a meeting point of culture, celebrating the meeting of the objects, stories and words.

Barbados Museum and Historical Society

The Barbados Museum will be launching and focusing on a number of activities during the month of May, starting with an exhibition in the form of a visual and audio documentary of Barbadian Second World War veterans. A Conservation Conference with conservators from the UK and Puerto Rico will follow. This Conference will be open to ICOM members and a few others and is in collaboration with the University of The West Indies in Barbados.

If possible, the Barbados Museum will launch a temporary exhibition of Barbadian objects reflecting forgotten domestic memory at The Barbados Museum and at an offsite location. This section will be shared with other ICOM members and institutions who can host a temporary exhibition of this nature. Texts will highlight the use of the objects accompanied by images.

Museo Casa del Tejido Antiguo

"Manos Mágicas" (9am - 5pm)

Visit and demonstration of Mayan ancestral techniques.

Permanent demonstration of handicraft and ancestral techniques as well as the cultural event "Manos Mágicas", a weaving competition between several weavers of many rural regions of Guatemala. The Museo Casa del Tejido Antiguo offers to its visitors the opportunity to admire the huge variety, the originality and the beauty of Guatemalan handicraft, thanks to the permanent exhibition of traditional Mayan costumes of our country.

Ms Alida Pérez Santos, founder of the museum and the craftsmen, perfectly realized an exhibition of the art to weave. Visitors will know everything about this art thanks to different types of looms such as the foot powered loom for example, and to available information about them.

The Museo Casa del Tejido Antiguo, was inaugurated on 23 March, 1998 and has a gallery specially reserved to the exhibition of length from different regions of Guatemala. Our goal is to give the opportunity to visitors to discover the quality and cultural diversity of the Mayan culture thanks to the fabrics elaborated with the telar de cintura (special loom in which the weaver tighten threads - tied to his waist - thanks to his weight).

Cultural heritage through artistic activity (18 May, 10am)

Free entrance; Performance.

This event was organised in order to involve each educational institution of the Ate Vitarte academy in the celebration of International Museum Day. It is an artistic activity that evokes cultural heritage through different disciplines: dance, theatre and singing.

Dance: typical of the country's different regions, such as the "Huaylas", which comes from the Central Sierra and particularly from the Junin region, and is a representation of potatoes harvesting.

Theatre: Through this art, learning more about the functions and everyday life of the curaca of Puruchuco, as well as the production and development of community celebrations.

Singing: interpretation of Andean music with pre-Hispanic instruments.

Copyright: Cantor Arts Center at Stanford University

Free Admission (11 am to 5 pm)

Free-entry, Visit

The Cantor Arts Center presents a wide selection of art in 24 galleries, plus outdoor gardens, courtyards, and terraces — all admission free. The Center's collection spans 4000 years and ranges from ancient China to the 21st century, including the largest collection of Rodin bronzes in the world outside Paris. Current exhibitions include:

1. A Rediscovered Masterpiece: 12 Drawings from Tiepolo's New Testament - Illustrations drawn by the prolific Venetian master Giovanni Domenico Tiepolo
2. True Colors: Rediscovering Pigments on Greco-Roman Marble Sculpture - A Center team discovered minute traces of pigments using handheld X-ray fluorescence technology that originally covered an ancient marble sculpture. Creating replicas using 3D rapid prototypic technology, the team recreated and painted examples of the brightly colored sculpture of ancient times.
3. Illustrated Title Pages: 1500-1900 - 80 illustrated title pages, tracing the development of the title page from the 16th to 19th centuries.

Justice & Police Museum

Concession entry for everyone (10am - 5pm)

Visit.

Step into the dark side of Sydney's past with a visit to a historic police and court building (1856 –1886) that once imposed authority on Sydney's unruly waterfront. Explore the building's atmospheric interior – spiked gates, Court Room and the corridor of cells. In the 1890s police Charge Room you can stand before the Duty Sergeant's desk and imagine yourself being fingerprinted. Encounter a spine-chilling collection of criminal weapons and a mug-shot gallery of offenders that stare defiantly back at you from the walls.

Hyde Park Barracks

Concession entry for everyone (9.30am-5pm)

Visit.

A World Heritage Australian Convict Site.

The Hyde Park Barracks was built in 1819 to house, clothe and feed convict men and boys. This impressive brick building and walled compound, located at the head of Sydney's historic Macquarie Street, was designed by convict architect Francis Greenway. After 1848 the main dormitory held newly arrived female immigrants while a handful of government agencies made use of surrounding buildings. In 1862, separate wards for destitute women were added upstairs and the Barracks became known as the Hyde Park Asylum. Sydney celebrated the 50th anniversary of Queen Victoria's reign in 1887 with the construction of major public buildings and monuments. The Hyde Park Barracks became a hub of government departments and renamed Chancery Square. Until the late 1970s, thousands of public servants, legal workers and litigants occupied dingy office spaces, courtrooms and corridors, scattered throughout the increasingly crowded complex. Today the Hyde Park Barracks is a museum about itself.

Rouse Hill House & Farm

Concession entry for everyone (9.30am-4.30pm)

Visit.

Founded in 1813 and crammed with 20,000 objects spanning its long life, Rouse Hill House & Farm expresses the hopes and dreams of six generations of family life in rural New South Wales from early colonization to the late 1900s.

An extraordinary amount of colonial history converged upon or passed hard by this place, with Rouse Hill House -itself one of the oldest continually occupied homes in Australia- overlooking the Hawkesbury road of 1794, the Windsor turnpike road which replaced it, and the Vinegar Hill battlefield of 1804.

Take a tour to experience the old house with its time-warped rooms, the ancient garden, handsome stables, and the tottering outbuildings, old machinery and rusting vehicles that strew the wider farmstead. Or come and enjoy one of Rouse Hill's farm-based or other family-friendly programs.

Whanganui Regional Museum

Memory and Music (5 performances during month of May)

In collaboration with International Museum Day's focus on memory and New Zealand Music Month the Whanganui Regional Museum extends an invitation to honour the power of music to bring the past into the present in a series of concerts.

- OUR SOUNDS: Join us to experience the sounds of our heritage instruments in the Atrium of the Museum.
- SOUNDS ON OUR SHORES: We present an evening to celebrate the rich musical traditions that have arrived on our shores. From bagpipes to bamboo flutes, Chinese opera to Irish reels, Kapa haka to Pacifica performances we will explore the music, memories and meanings that lie at the heart of our diverse musical culture.
- LETTERS HOME: Wartime tunes symbolise the power of music to express our sorrows and remind us to hope. From comically defiant songs to haunting ballads our repertoire of music will be interspersed with readings of letters sent home by those who served overseas maintaining fragile contact with loved ones. These Letters are now treasures in our archival collection.

About IMD

The International Council of Museums (ICOM) established International Museum Day in 1977 to encourage public awareness of the role of museums in the development of society.

From America to Oceania, through Europe, Asia and Africa, International Museum Day (IMD) is a special moment for the global museum community. On this day, participating museums interpret an issue affecting cultural organisations. International Museum Day is also a fantastic opportunity for museum professionals to meet their public. Museums are at the heart of the system, institutions that serve and develop society.

Traditionally, International Museum Day is organised around 18 May. It can last for a day, a weekend or a whole week as long as the objective remains focused on the motto: "Museums are an important means of cultural exchange, enrichment of cultures and development of mutual understanding, cooperation and peace among peoples".

About ICOM

Created in 1946, ICOM (International Council of Museums) is an international non-governmental organisation maintaining formal relations with UNESCO. Within the United Nations, ICOM has a consultative status with the Economic and Social Council. ICOM is the only international organisation representing museums and museum professionals on a global level.

ICOM is:

- A diplomatic forum made up of representatives from 137 countries and territories
- Standards of excellence for museums including ethics (ICOM Code of Ethics for Museums)
- A unique international network of more than 30,000 museum professionals around the world
- A think-tank composed of 31 International Committees which represent museum specialties
- Missions of international public service notably in the fight against illicit traffic of cultural property and emergency programmes in case of natural disasters or armed conflicts.

About the partners

The topic of conserving and transmitting collective memory does not only affect museums. For the first time ever, the International Council of Museums has therefore initiated close institutional partnerships with cultural organisations that share ICOM's missions and feel concerned by these questions.

UNESCO Memory of the World Programme (World Documentary Heritage)

The world is facing a catastrophe of losing millions of text and print items including books, manuscripts, newspapers, photographs and historic records as well as millions of films, audio and video tapes and discs, not to mention the growing digital heritage accessible online or shared through other means.

These documents are the core of the memory of humanity, and their loss would leave the global community without the ability to understand the past or build the future. Their protection is assured under the Memory of the World Programme, which seeks to safeguard priceless documentary heritage from all corners of the world, from the dawn of history to contemporary times, including audio, visual and anecdotal memory. It contains the diversity of multi-dimensional events that have influenced human beings in personal and profound ways and should be disseminated to future generations.

Co-ordinating Council of Audiovisual Archives Associations (CCAAA)

CCAAA represents the interests of worldwide professional archive organisations with interests in audiovisual materials including films, broadcast television and radio, and audio recordings of all kinds. Although predominantly working in the public sector, CCAAA reflects a broad range of interests across the broadcast media, arts, heritage, education and information sectors. The professional archivists that CCAAA ultimately represents work in institutions such as archives, libraries and museums at national and local level, university teaching and research departments, and broadcasting organisations.

International Council on Archives (ICA)

The International Council on Archives (ICA) is a worldwide non-governmental organisation, with about 1,500 institutional and individual members in over 190 countries and territories. National Archives services play a prominent part in ICA, together with professional records management and archival associations, other archival institutions and individuals. With its combination of geographical branches and sections focusing on different professional interests, ICA has developed an organisational structure enabling international co-operation in the area of archives. It strives to build a better understanding across societies while respecting linguistic and cultural diversity. It acts as the voice of archive institutions and professionals on the global stage.

ICA promotes the central role of recordkeeping and archives in protecting the rights of individuals and states, and in supporting democracy and good governance, through working for the effective management of archives from the moment of their creation, the permanent preservation of archives as the documented memory of nations and societies, and the widest possible public access to that memory.

ICA also provides a forum for professional discussion across political divides. Over 60 years, ICA has produced a wide range of important publications, most of which are still invaluable works of reference for practicing archivists today. It plays a key role in the development of major standards in the intellectual management of archives, enabling archivists to play a full part in emerging online information networks. Its business plan is underpinned by a rich professional programme including more than 40 projects and a wide range of professional conferences throughout the world.

International Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS)

The International Council on Monuments and Sites is a global NGO with more than 10,000 cultural heritage professionals present in over 100 countries, and 28 International Scientific Committees. Through the cross-disciplinary exchange of its members, it fosters improved heritage conservation standards and techniques for all forms of cultural properties: buildings, historic towns, cultural landscapes, archaeological sites, etc. – tangible expressions of the collective memory of humankind. An advisory body to UNESCO, it actively takes part in the implementation of the World Heritage Convention.

In working for the conservation of monuments and sites world-wide, ICOMOS and its members strive to ensure the survival of these unique repositories of global memory. As embodiments of human development and history, heritage places reflect humanity's achievements as well as its darkest moments. ICOMOS is dedicated to safeguarding both tangible and intangible values of the world's monuments, which are linked to broader issues of cultural identity, human rights, and collective memory. It is thus with a deep sense of common cause that ICOMOS supports ICOM's effort to promote the theme of Memory on International Museum Day 2011.

International Federation of Library Associations (IFLA)

IFLA supports the important role of libraries in preserving the written memory of the world, whether on paper or in digital form, and in making it accessible for our generation and for generations to come.

International examples of Digital Libraries are the World Digital Library and Europeana. IFLA embraces these memory initiatives. In its strategic development for 2010-2015 IFLA aims to provide an international network of experts and to bring expertise in the field of standardisation.

The IFLA Digital Libraries Manifesto is an advocacy tool for building digital libraries and the safeguarding of the world's digital memory. The IFLA/CDNL Alliance on Digital Strategies is IFLA's core activity, which focuses on standardisation and digital strategies. IFLA holds the secretariat of the LAMMS Coordinating Council, through which NGOs of libraries, archives centres, museums and monuments and sites enhance cooperation in fields of common interest, such as the development of the Global Digital Library initiatives.

European Night of Museums

For the first time, ICOM will patronize the European Night of Museums, an event which announces International Museum Day in the spirit of an all-day and all-night museum week.

The European Night of Museums was created in 2005 by the French Ministry of Culture and Communication. During a late-night opening, visitors can discover, for free, museums' collections and all the special events organised for the festival. The Night of Museums aims to make museums more accessible to the general public and in particular to a new younger public and to federate a network of European museums around a common festive and friendly event.

In 2010, more than 3,000 European museums in 40 different countries participated in the Night of Museums.

The Council of Europe and UNESCO are patronizing the Night of Museums and the French Federation of Friends of Museums and the French Réunion des Musées nationaux (RMN) are institutional partners of the event.

This festival announces International Museum Day. The events are complementary.
